President Kovind outlines Modi Govt's goals

$5 trillion economy, women empowerment, inclusive India, focus on Triple Talaq, NRC and One Nation One Poll

President Ram Nath Kovind addressing the Parliament today.

New Delhi, June 20 (UNI)- In his customary joint address to Parliament, President Ram Nath Kovind this morning outlined the NDA Government's objectives for "New India." Stating that the Government plans to make India a 5-trillion dollar economy by 2024, President Kovind in his address at the Central Hall of Parliament said, "My Government is moving ahead to create strong, secure and inclusive India."

Adding that the world today is standing with India on issues of terrorism, Kovind said, "National security is paramount for my Government, surgical strike and Balakot air strike on terror camps have made India's intentions clear. Declaration of Masood Azhar as a global terrorist is proof that the world is watching." He also said that the Government plans to double the farmers' income by 2022, to provide electricity for all and to ensure the empowerment of women.

Sabka saath, sabka vikas

Stating that a clear mandate has been given in favour of "sabka saath, sabka vikas," Kovind congratulated all the MPs. "Everyone knows the situation before 2014. People of India voted to continue with India's development journey that started in 2014." He also thanked the voters for their participation and said the diverse backgrounds of the members will enrich the debate in Parliament. He also hoped that the Parliamentarians would work together for the development of the country.

Removing 'triple talaq', 'nikah halala'

The government is committed to women empowerment, President Kovind said. "Removing practices like 'triple talaq' and 'nikah halala' essential to give equality to women," he said. "According the highest priority to women's security, several effective steps have been initiated with the cooperation of the States. Penalties for crimes against women have been made harsher and the new penal provisions are being strictly enforced. The 'Beti Bachao Beti Padhao' campaign has brought down female foeticide and improved the sex ratio in many districts of the country. My Government is committed to make women equal stakeholders in the country's development and prosperity," Kovind said.

Parents killed as tipper runs over

Clueless child sits beside bodies

Chamarajanagar, June 20 (SS&KS)- Villagers of Muttige village here were witness to a heart-rending scene where a little boy was seen touching the dead body of his father while his mother's body lay next to his father's. Without realising that he had lost both his parents, the five-year-old child continued to touch his dad's body in a vain attempt to wake him up.

Soon, villagers and the Police rushed to the spot and some villagers were in tears seeing the helpless situation of the boy. Though they tried their best to cajole the child, turning away his attention from the dead bodies, the child turned continuously at his dead parents pointing his hands towards them.

The incident occurred this morning near Muttige village. The child was accompanying his parents, 50-year-old Madesh and 35-year-old Mani who were on their bike. They were residents of Kagalwadi village.

The family was on their visit to Mysuru to attend a wedding. At Muttige, the boy told his parents that he wanted to relieve himself. Heeding to his son's request, Madesh stopped his bike by the side of the road and lifted the boy from his bike and told him to go near a bush.

Madesh and Mani too got down from the bike. Moments later, a speeding tipper rammed against the couple as they waited for their son. The couple was killed on the spot. Soon, the child came to the spot after attending nature's call and without realising what had happened, the little one sat down and tried to wake up his dad.

After the accident, the tipper driver tried to escape with his vehicle but villagers and other motorists gave a chase and blocked the tipper at a distance. However, the driver managed to flee after abandoning his vehicle. Chamarajanagar Traffic Police have registered a case.

Land's Liveability
Pride & Prejudice

Patriotism, an unalloyed virtue of love for one's country and nationalism, driven by the ideology of a sense of belonging to one's country seems to be witnessing suffocation in the current dispensation of providing good governance to 135-plus crore people across the nation, identifying themselves with diverse badges of their multitude of lingo, faiths, ethnicity, economic status, affiliation to different loud-mouthed vote-seekers as their followers and what have you. The division of the land's population has further got deepened, given its classification for purposes of privileges, particularly the all-too-familiar quota system, leaving the rest red-faced. The issue of liveability of the country, debated in formal circles and talked about informally by lay people, particularly the urban literati, influenced by pride on one side and prejudice on the other, has tended to assume the proverbial Gordian Knot proportions, requiring extraordinary powers of articulation to sustain the march of the nation towards economic prosperity not excluding the country's last citizen.

The imperative of avoiding emotions in the matter of introducing measures that result in ease of living for everyone cannot be over-exaggerated. While law and order is getting out of hands for the administration, the gap between need and accessibility to safe water, pure air, decent shelter and health has tended to be yawning to unmanageable levels, even as the wily vote-seekers are having a field-day.

Atmospheric air, perceived as abundant, even infinite, seems to have suffered hurt in no less way than drinking water, now shrinking in supply, given the often publicised fact that none of the Indian cities has air quality matching the norms stipulated by World Health Organisation (WHO). The errors and hasty, unviable measures being taken by successive Governments in addressing the problem in respect of these two life-saving resources remind us of the romantic novel Pride & Prejudice by Jane Austin (1813) highlighting the difference between the superficial and the essential. India is said to account for 15 of the top 20 most polluted cities of the world. Further, 12 lakh Indians reportedly pay with their life annually due to breathing impure air, known to be hazardous.

Even as the country's incumbent Government at the Centre has an ambitious five-year plan of providing dwellings for all, there are 18 lakh people living on footpaths and pavements, 20 lakh in dilapidated homes and 6.4 crore in slums. In sum, feeling pride or prejudice about the land is subject to the extent of people's basic needs being satisfied.

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

Cracking up over jokes is being replaced by Governments cracking down on humorists — although not an exclusive saffron habit. Journalist Prashant Kanojia was whisked away by the Police for tweeting about a woman who proposed marriage to Yogi Adityanath; the post suggested that the sadhu has a secret crush. The Supreme Court ordered his bail, and the Uttar Pradesh Government got egg on its face and Kanojia became a hero of Freedom of Speech. Nobody bothered to notice that his tweet was not even remotely journalistic in nature. But the woman became a news story and the more-loyal-than-the-king UP Police shut down the channel that interviewed her. It also arrested the journalists, thus creating two more heroes of Press Freedom. — Ravi Shankar in The New Sunday Express

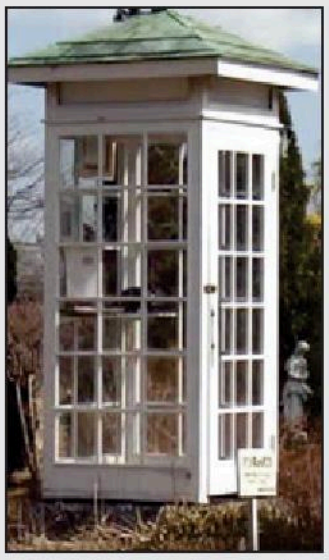
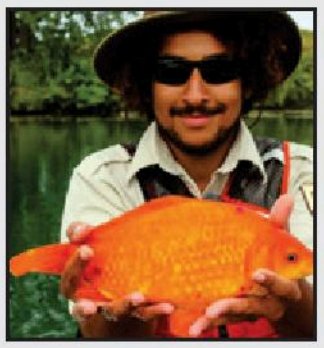
A phone booth connected to nothing and nowhere



Otsuchi: There is a white, glass-paneled phone booth with a black rotary phone connected to nothing and nowhere on a hill overlooking the Pacific Ocean, outside the Japanese town of Otsuchi and ever since the tragic tsunami of 2010, which claimed nearly 20,000 human lives, thousands of grieving people have visited the booth to "call" their lost loved ones as a way of coping with their loss.

The Wind Phone, as the telephone booth is commonly known, was actually built a year before tsunami that ravaged Japan's Tōhoku coast. Otsuchi resident, Itaru Sasaki, had lost his cousin and built a phone booth in his hilltop garden from where he would call his dear relative. He would dial his cousin's phone number and his words would be "carried on the wind" which made Sasaki feel a deeper connection to his cousin.

Huge goldfish caught in Niagara River



New York: A New York state nonprofit is pleading with the public not to flush their unwanted pets after a 14-inch goldfish was found near a wastewater treatment plant. "Goldfish can survive year-round in our watershed and can destroy the habitat of native fish," a facebook post said. "Scientists estimate that tens of millions of goldfish now live in the Great Lakes," it added.

"If you cannot keep your pet, please return it to the store instead of flushing or releasing it," the post further said.

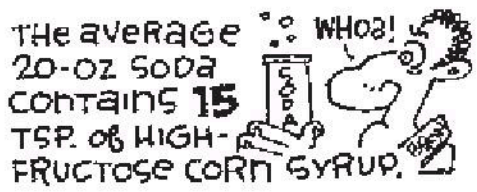
What health conditions are high-fructose corn syrup associated with?



High-fructose corn syrup is among the most toxic foods that we consume. It is linked to obesity, diabetes, heart disease and fatty liver disease. Simply removing sugar from the diet and replacing it with healthy natural alternatives goes a long way toward enhancing health.

Really...?

- Sabarimala Divine Light: Sabarimala is a Hindu pilgrimage centre located in the Western Ghat mountain ranges of Pathanamthitta District, Kerala. It is the largest annual pilgrimage in the world with an estimated 100 million devotees visiting every year. Sabarimala is believed to be the place where the Hindu God Ayyappan meditated after killing the powerful demoness, Mahishi. On Makarasankranti every year without fail, miraculous events occur. Firstly as the jewels of the Lord are transported from the Old Pandalam Palace to Sabarimala, a Krishnaparanth (Holy Garuda - an eagle - the vehicle of Lord Vishnu), circles above the precious jewels (in fact guarding them), like a protector.
- Jwala Ji Temple: We don't have any knowledge of its source. Some say it could be reserve of natural gas but same could not be validated. Mogul ruler Akbar even tried to extinguish this eternal flame but couldn't get successful. The Government of India with a team of able Geologists under Nehru has also tried in vain to establish the source of this eternal flame.

VOICE OF THE READER

Gangothri campus becoming an eyesore

Sir,

Every time during my morning walks with Prof. B. Sheik Ali, I walk on the footpath separated by steel fence adjacent to the University of Mysore Guest House and I see a lot of construction materials lying on the lawn. Since it has been lying in this state for many years, grass and other vegetation has grown around it presenting an ugly picture.

Today, I made up my mind to take some pictures. Since it was not a hospitable stretch, I requested nonagenarian Prof. Sheik Ali to sit on the bench and went alone to snap some pictures. In fact, it was quite an ordeal to go along overgrown vegetation and there was always a fear that I may step on some cobra or other poisonous snake lurking and had to wend my way carefully.

A single shot will not give a complete picture as one can see flat slabs, Mangalore tiles and reinforcements getting rusted lying helter-skelter. It is distressing that the authorities concerned have not cared to remove it and use it usefully elsewhere. In fact, the best way of disposing it is by auction. This only reflects apathy and indifference of University for its neglect.

This fact is more than evident by deterioration of the whole of Manasagangothri campus which was sparkling during its centenary year celebrations not too recently when the whole campus was spruced up. I can only say that Kuvempu of revered memory at the entrance gate, Buddha under the Peepul tree and Baba Saheb Ambedkar have become mute witnesses of the sad state of affairs.

But the tragedy is that recently the University had commissioned lots of artists who did magnificent work of sculpting Gandhiji's statues in many moods, who stood for cleanliness and what we see is a stark contrast to these personalities.

CESC to establish charging points for e-vehicles in city

Mysuru, June 20- In a bid to save petroleum products, control pollution and encourage the public to use electric vehicles, Chamundeshwari Electricity Supply Corporation (CESC) is all set to establish six charging units for e-vehicles on Mysuru-Bengaluru Highway and other vantage points in city.

As of now, a total of 110 e-vehicles have been registered at RTO (West) out of which seven are e-rickshaws, five e-cars and the rest are two-wheelers. As there are no charging units for these e-vehicles in city, people are not opting to buy these e-vehicles. But once the charging units are established, the sale of e-vehicles would pick up. Keeping in mind to give facilities to e-vehicle owners, charging units are being established, said CESC General Manager (Technical) V. Prakash.

Stating that places have been identified for installation of charging units and the installation points have also been inspected, he said that a proposal in this regard has been submitted to the Central Government and once the proposal is approved, the installation work would be taken up soon.

CHARGING POINTS

In the first phase, it has been decided to install two charging units at Maddur and Mandya, one unit each in Srirangapatna and Mysuru, he said and added that in the second phase, there are plans to establish public and private charging stations in Mysuru city. This apart, there is a plan to install a charging unit at CESC Corporate Office, he said.

A file photo of an e-vehicle charging point at Maharashtra. Similar charging points will be established in Mysuru.

He further said that the charging units which would be installed 35 to 40 kms apart from each other on either side of the road can cater two e-vehicles at a time for charging and added that an e-vehicle can travel up to 40 kms by charging for 25 minutes. Once the density of e-vehicles increases, power can be supplied to the charging units through solar facilities, he said.

LOW COST AND JOB CREATION

Prakash said that establishing charging units would not incur huge expenditure as it would be established in 8x20 ft. space. As two people are required at each charging unit, this would also create jobs to unemployed to some extent, he added.

CHARGING UNITS IN BENGALURU

As there are more than 9,000 e-vehicles plying in Bengaluru, there are many charging units established there. After seeing the success of these charging units, it has been decided to establish similar charging units on Bengaluru-Mysuru Highway.

"e-vehicles help in controlling pollution as these vehicles use electricity as fuel. Since there is no need for petrol or diesel for these e-vehicles, petrol and diesel could be saved. Because of non usage of the above two fuels, these vehicles are smokeless and produce very less sound, compared to other vehicles, thus reducing sound pollution too."

—V. Prakash, GM (Technical), CESC

No registration fee for e-vehicles

New Delhi, June 20- To boost the use of electric vehicles, the Union Ministry of Road Transport and Highways has decided to exempt battery-operated vehicles from paying registration fees.

The Ministry issued a draft notification in this regard and sought comments from the stakeholders. The exemption will be applicable to all categories of e-vehicle like 2, 3 and 4 wheelers.

"The Ministry has issued a draft notification to amend Rule 81 of Central Motor Vehicle Rules. The amendment proposes to exempt battery-operated vehicles from the payment of fees for the purpose of issue or the renewal of registration certificate and assignment of new registration mark. This means that electric vehicles would be exempted from such registration charges," said the Ministry in the statement.

Separate tenders for Dasara Expo

Mysuru, June 20 (PM&BCT)- In a depart from tradition, the Karnataka Exhibition Authority (KEA) has decided not to call global tender this time for Dasara Exhibition and call separate tenders for each of the attractions and facilities including parking and entry.

At a meeting of KEA held at the Exhibition Authority yesterday, it was decided to do away with single global tender and go for multiple tenders.

KEA Chairman Abdul Azeez (Abdulla) said that separate tenders will be called for the main entrance (entry fee), commercial stalls, parking, food court, amusement park, play arena, and advertisements.

He said that usually, the global tender is floated that includes all the above items. "As such, the tender amount is usually high and there will be less number of bidders. To avoid this, this year, separate tenders will be called for each of the items," he said. He said that as separate tenders will be called, local bidders too can apply for the tender.

KEA Chairman Abdul Azeez presiding over a meeting yesterday.

It may be mentioned here that the tender amount that was Rs.6.66 crore in 2017 was raised to Rs.6.99 crore last year and there were not many takers and the KEA had to refloat the tenders. Last year, Bengaluru-based Fun World bagged the tender and the company bid bagged tenders that included entry ticket, parking fee, commercial and food stalls and amusement park fee.

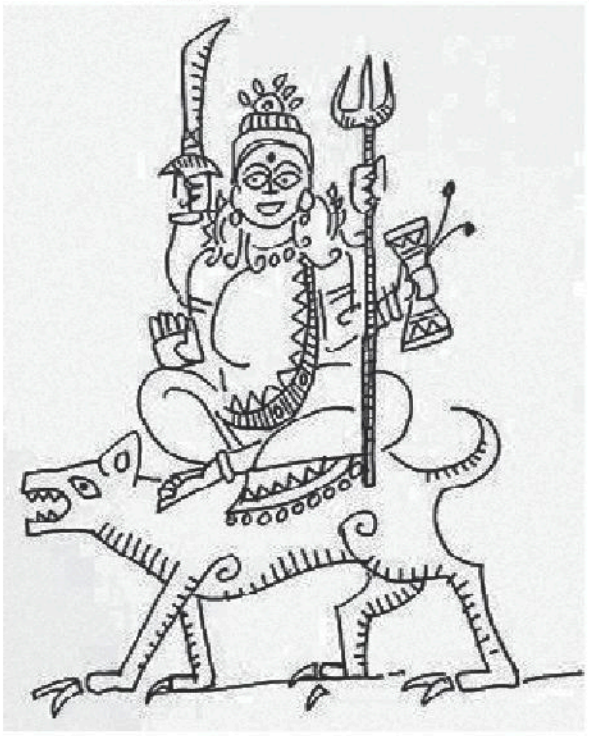
Decoding Mythology

Dr. Devdutt Pattanaik - Author, Speaker, Illustrator, Mythologist

A temple for a dog



In the State of Chhattisgarh, in Khapri village of Durg district, there is a temple dedicated to a dog. It is called Kukur Dev. The story goes that there was once a banjara (gypsy) who had a dog. During a famine, he had no money, so he gave up his dog as collateral to a moneylender.

One day, there was a theft in the money-lender's house. The dog saw where the thieves hid all the stolen goods and dragged the money-lender to the place, who retrieved the stolen goods. The money-lender then wrote a letter to the banjara, expressing his gratitude for the dog, and further stated that he had written off all the debts owed by the banjara. He tied this letter to the dog's neck and sent him as a messenger to the banjara. However, when the banjara saw his dog coming back from the money-lender's house, he beat the dog so hard with a stick that the dog died. After the dog died, the banjara saw the letter around the dog's neck and realised what had actually happened. In sorrow and remorse, he built a temple, in memory of the dog called the Kukur Samadhi.

This eventually became a Shiva temple, dating back 500 years, built by the local kings, for dogs are closely related to Shiva. The temple has the reputation of being Rinmukteshwar, where one is liberated from debts. Legend has it that Adi Shankaracharya came to this location to be free of all the debts he owed his guru.

Dogs are associated with Yama, who is the keeper of dharma. One of the meanings of dharma is the obligation of human beings to repay debts to ancestors, sages, gods, nature and society. As long as we are in debt, we are forced to be reborn and be a part of the cycle of birth and death. Only when we repay these debts are we liberated from the cycle. A dog's association with death is the reason Shiva, in his Bhairava form, is associated with dogs.

Dogs are generally considered inauspicious in Vedic tradition, but they are linked to ascetics like Dattatreya. And in Nepal, with its strong tantric leanings, there is a festival of dogs, Kukur Tihar, linked to Diwali, and Yama Dvitiya. In Gujarat, Vaghri Devi Pujaks worship Hadkai Mata, who rides a dog to protect them from rabies.

A dog's attachment to its master is a symbol of bondage. It becomes a metaphor for our attachment to the material world. How we free ourselves from this bondage is the question. The practice of yoga and bhakti is supposed to be the method by which we can be liberated from debts.

A dog's loyalty, in a way, is a way of a repaying its debt to his master who feeds him. He loves his master and protects his master. By this, we are reminded of the obligations that we owe to other people in our society, to whom we are supposed to be loyal, and whom we have to protect. This is but one of the many interesting stories we find in India that connect animal life with high philosophy.

Save Kodagu from over-tourism

By N.K.A. Ballal,
Retd. Sr. Vice-President, ITDC

Ballal

AAJ KA TAAJA KHABAR: The tourist spots, Nainital, Rishikesh and Haridwar have been submerged. Not by nature but by tourists! The unusually hot weather conditions in North India combined with holidays, these Hill Stations have been completely submerged by tourists. All the hotels are overflowing so much so that affluent tourists have to spend their nights in bus stands and pavements.

Traffic congestion upto five hours in prominent areas have been reported. The locals are aghast and helpless. Shortage of everything including water. Everyone is busy making a quick buck. I am not even discussing problems of garbage and overflowing sewage systems here.

Now let us take the case of Kodagu. The same scenario is going to play out. Already last year, nature has given a fair warning to what can happen if one does not take care of forests and trees but have we learnt our lesson? A recent news that nearly 800 trees were about to be cut and that too in the landslide-prone K. Nidungani village at the behest of Karnataka Housing Board until stopped by the Chief Minister's Office. In spite of all the warnings, people are building new luxury resorts all over the place, hill slopes etc., with active support from forest officials, local administration and local politicians. Who will bell the cat and stop this plunder?

A new Resort is being constructed in Modur village where cottages are being built on the hill slope and a stream has been illegally diverted to convert a wetland into a Lake for boating! Coorg Wildlife Society has protested but no one is listening. A boarding school on 100 acres of land is coming up. Locals are up in arms but again no response from the Government.

I have written on this subject before too. Sustainable and regulated tourism is the only way Kodagu will survive this onslaught. The Government in its wisdom should make Kodagu an "upmarket destination" like Kumarakom in Kerala and allow only top-class Resorts and Home Stays. Key spots like Bhagamandala, Talacauvery etc., should have pass system by which the footfalls can be regulated. The footfalls will reduce but hoteliers and others connected with tourism trade will earn the same amount of money at the end of the day.

Talacauvery, the birthplace of River Cauvery in Kodagu.

Kumarakom backwater destination in Kerala.

Boracay Island in Philippines.

Sustainable and regulated tourism is the only way Kodagu will survive this onslaught. The State Government in its wisdom should make Kodagu an "upmarket destination" like Kumarakom in Kerala and allow only top-class Resorts and Home Stays. Key spots like Bhagamandala and Talacauvery should have pass system by which the footfalls can be regulated.

Boracay Island in Philippines had to shut down for six months completely to overhaul their sewage system because of this peril of over-tourism. In Thailand, Maya Bay had to be closed to public after it was found that 80 percent of their corals got destroyed due to over-tourism.

A recent report from Goa, another major destination in India, is disturbing. Tourism in on the decline. Why? Increasing garbage, harassment of tourists and rising prices.

Another reason given is the proliferation of cheap bed and Home Stays which have ensured that the city is full of cheap tourists just like in Kodagu where an estimated 3,000 unregistered Home Stays exist. All these unregistered Home Stays deal in cash. They do not pay tax and are a big security risk too.

There are a number of such examples all over the world and Kodagu is not far off. A disaster is waiting to happen unless we learn from our mistakes and take corrective actions. What is however surprising is that the locals are totally lax about this and are worried about their short-term gains or losses if tourism is regulated.

What is the solution? Simple. Stop all new constructions. Assess the situation after this monsoon. Regulate footfalls in sensitive areas like Talacauvery. Plant new tree saplings on a war-footing. Just a few stray thoughts.

Wake up before it is too late. Is the Government listening? Jaago, Save Kodagu !!

Model E-Waste Collection and Segregation Centre proposed in city

Stakeholder interaction tomorrow

Mysuru, June 20- Mysuru, in its harmonious growth, is seeing advent and growth of Information Technology, which has brought an increased pace of development to the city. The creation of employment in IT domain and the increased digitalisation of society at large are posing threat to non-accounted challenge of disposal of electronic goods and appliances which collectively are called "E-Waste."

E-Waste poses a daunting challenge of its management. Managing hazardous chemicals and heavy metal components without scientific and safe handling increases the chances of E-Waste ending in our dry waste and eventually into landfills which in due course will contaminate our water bodies and the top soil, leading to increased rate of cancer and other harmful diseases in the near future.

Hence, Confederation of Indian Industry (CII), Mysuru, in association with Mysuru City Corporation (MCC) and Karnataka State Pollution Control Board (KSPCB) proposes to set up a Model E-Waste Collection and Segregation Centre, wherein E-Wastes are collected and segregated in Mysuru and properly handled and disposed in scientific way.

With this objective, CII is organising a half-day Stakeholder Interaction to deliberate on "E-Waste Management in Mysuru" on June 21 at 2.30 pm at SDM Institute of Management and Development in Mysuru to create awareness and to draw stakeholder attention towards E-Waste management in city.

Shilpa Nag, MCC Commissioner, will be the chief guest at the session. Dr. P.M. Kulkarni, President, Bhageerath, Mysuru; Dr. A. Ramesh, Senior Environmental Officer, KSPCB, Bengaluru and Bhaskar Kalale, Chairman, CII Mysuru and President & GM India Operations, Theorem India Pvt Ltd., will be the other key speakers at the session. There will be representatives from Pollution Control Board, RWAs, Institutions, Hospitals, NGOs and Industry to discuss this subject.

International Day of Yoga on June 21

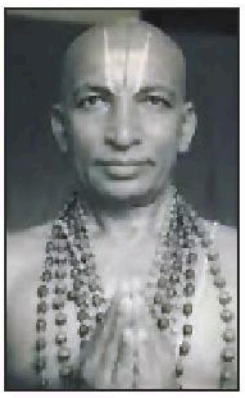
A 'Royal Touch' to Yoga in Mysuru

Mummadi

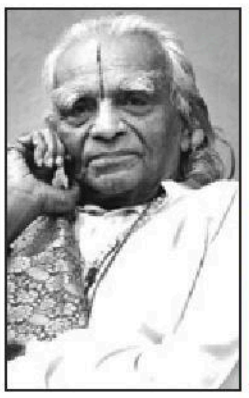
Chamaraja Wadiyar

Nalwadi

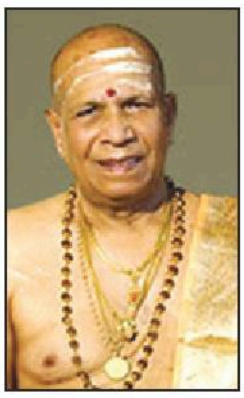
Jayachamaraja



Krishnamacharya



B.K.S. Iyengar



Pattabhi Jois

Mysuru, June 20 (NNN)-Yoga, the ancient art of India that is Bharat, has gone international and the whole world is celebrating International Day of Yoga tomorrow. Our city has a rich tradition of this practice and hence it is also called the Yoga Capital of the world.

The credit for this goes to our rulers the Wadiyar dynasty and, therefore, it is right to say that Yoga has a 'Royal Touch' to it. Mummadi Krishnaraja Wadiyar (1798-1868) was an authority on Yoga as he has clearly depicted the importance of it in his nine volume works Sritatvanidhi.

However, another name that is synonymous with Mysuru yoga is that of Muchukunte Tirumalai Krishnamacharya. He was born in a settlement of scholars in Sanskrit and Vedas in Muchukunte near T. Narasipur. He was a teacher not only to the two well-known exponents of yoga B.K.S. Iyengar and Pattabhi Jois but also to the 24th ruler of Mysore Sri Nalwadi Krishnaraja Wadiyar, the Rajarshi.

Krishnamacharya was a Professor of Yoga in the Maharaja Sanskrit College (Government Maharaja Samskrutha Mahapatashale) and he revived the ancient system of Mysore tradition of yoga called the Vinyasa Yoga.

Speaking to Star of Mysore on the eve of Yoga Day, Maharaja Sanskrit College Nyaya Department's Professor-in-charge M.A. Alwar said that there was a yoga room in the college where even Nalwadi would come and practice yoga under the tutelage of Krishnamacharya. However, the Yoga Department has not been functioning since many years as there are no teachers to teach yoga.

Acting Principal of Maharaja Sanskrit College Dr. K.M. Mahadevaiah speaking to Star of Mysore said that the Yoga Department had been closed as there was no one to teach yoga. They had now sent a proposal to University of Mysore to appoint yoga teachers. Once the teachers are appointed then yoga courses will begin in the college where both the students of the college and others interested in yoga can learn, he added.

Involvement of Mysore rulers in Yoga

The starting of the Sanskrit College is dated to year 1876 which is not correct as Mummadi Krishnaraja Wadiyar had by then passed away and Chamaraja Wadiyar was not yet anointed as the ruler, said R. Rajachandra, the son-in-law of late Sri Jayachamaraja Wadiyar and an authority on the Wadiyar dynasty.

It is a misnomer to call the institution as Maharaja Sanskrit College as all Indian knowledge systems were taught here under one roof including Ayurveda and Yoga. But Ayurveda was taken out and now it has become the Government Ayurveda Medical College and Hospital, while yoga was retained here, said Prof. Alwar.

Even the renowned yoga exponent Pattabhi Jois was the Professor of Yoga in the college till his retirement and only later he started his own Yoga School. The other direct disciple of Krishnamacharya (who lived up to the age of 100), is B.N.S. Iyengar, 93, he added.

During the Maharajas rule until 1951, the Maharajas would come to the Patashale to confer degrees on the students who had graduated in Sanskrit and other disciplines, said Prof. Alwar.

Nalwadi was instrumental in promoting Yoga in the State as he sent another great yoga exponent B.K.S. Iyengar to different parts to promote and popularise yoga. Only later, Iyengar went to Poona to start his own Yoga School which gained worldwide recognition, said Rajachandra.

Oriental Research Institute (ORI) Director Prof. S. Shivarajappa told Star of Mysore that four volumes of Sritatvanidhi by Mummadi has already been published and the remaining five volumes are still to be published.

It is in the seventh volume of his nine volume Sritatvanidhi titled Saivanidhi that Mummadi writes in detail about yoga along with 100 illustrations of line drawings of various yogic postures, he said.

Once the Grihanidhi and Saivanidhi are published, it will just fly off the shelves as many scholars are waiting for these two volumes, said Prof. Shivarajappa.

These early efforts of the rulers of Mysore including Mummadi Krishnaraja Wadiyar, Chamaraja Wadiyar, Nalwadi Krishnaraja Wadiyar, Sri Jayachamaraja Wadiyar and also the great Yoga Gurus Krishnamacharya, B.K.S. Iyengar, Pattabhi Jois that Yoga has got all the hype and gone global, said Prof. Alwar.

Boon to farmers

In the best interests of agriculturists, President Kovind said the Cabinet in its first meeting has decided to extend the benefits of Pradhan Mantri Kisan Samman Siddhi (PM-KISAN) to all the farmers across the country, regardless of the size of their landholding. Announced ahead of the Lok Sabha elections in the Interim Budget this February, the scheme provided Rs. 6,000 a year in income support — to be distributed in three instalments of Rs. 2,000 each every four months — to small and marginal farmers, who owned 2 hectares or less.

Large-scale investment has been made to strengthen rural India. To increase the productivity of the agriculture sector, another Rs. 25 lakh crore will be invested in the coming years. In order to double the farmers' income by 2022, the government has hiked the MSP and introduced 100 per cent FDI in food processing industries, among other initiatives. Massive work is being carried for the 'aspirational districts' of the country, he added.

5 trillion dollar economy

Adding that the government plans to make India a 5 trillion dollar economy, Kovind said, "India is now on the way to become the world's 5th largest economy in terms of GDP. In 'Ease of Doing Business', India has leap-frogged 65 positions during the past 5 years, from a ranking of 142 in 2014 to 77. Now our goal is to be among the top 50 countries of the world. With the implementation of GST, the concept of 'One country, One tax, One market' has become a reality. Efforts to further simplify the GST will continue," he added.

Revenue Minister R.V. Deshpande holds drought review meeting

Mysuru, June 20 (RK&KS)- Revenue Minister R.V. Deshpande held a disaster management and drought relief review meeting at the Zilla Panchayat (ZP) meeting hall this morning where officials and Deputy Commissioner Abhiram G. Sankar provided information about rain-related natural calamity and losses to the Minister.

The Minister directed the city and rural wing officials to identify encroachments and clear them and also instructed them to take steps to clear storm water drains by utilising funds from State Disaster Response fund (SDRF) and National Disaster Response Fund (NDRF).

Speaking about the spread of vector borne diseases, Deshpande instructed the officials to take steps to control the spread of diseases such as malaria and dengue. He also instructed the officials of the Agriculture Department to keep adequate stock of various seeds and distribute the same to famers without any delay.

Scarcity of water atop Chamundi Hill

Mysuru District Minister G.T. Devegowda informed the Revenue Minister about scarcity of drinking water atop Chamundi Hill to which the Minister took Rural Drinking Water Supply (RDWS) officer to task. The RDWS Officer told the Minister that the Forest Department was denying permission to lay pipes to supply water. When the Minister sought explanation from the Executive Engineer (EE), he came to know that the EE was absent and asked the DC to issue a notice to the EE seeking explanation for his absence. Deshpande then instructed the Assistant Executive Engineer to take up drinking water works on priority basis.

Protest outside

Members of the State Sugarcane Growers' Association had gathered at the Zilla Panchayat premises to meet the Minister and air their grievances. They were, however, prevented from meeting the Minister and they staged a protest.

The Minister later listened to their woes and received a memorandum. The Minister also inspected various equipment used by the Fire and Emergency Service personnel at a time of disaster.

Kurubarahalli Survey No. 4 issue

District Minister G.T. Devegowda raised the problems faced by the residents of areas coming under Kurubarahalli Survey No. 4 and Alanahalli Survey No. 41 whose legal lands have not yet been regularised. He said that the residents are fed up over inordinate delay in deletion of 'B-Kharab' classification of lands coming under CITB and MUDA Layouts in Kurubarahalli Survey No.4 and Alanahalli Survey No.41.

He told the Minister that though a decision was taken in the Cabinet to issue Khata and other documents to the residents, the State Government had not passed an order in this regard which has resulted in the residents facing several problems. Minister Deshpande said that he would look into it in the government level and see that the problems are solved.

Deshpande offers puja at Ch. Hill Temple

Mysuru, June 20 (PM&US)- Revenue Minister R.V. Deshpande visited Chamundi Hill Temple this morning and offered puja to Goddess Chamundeshwari.

On his return, the Minister visited Tavarekatte village and interacted with the residents. He was accompanied by DC Abhiram G. Sankar, Mayor Pushpalatha Jagannath, ZP CEO K. Jyothi, former MLA Vasu, Chamundi Hill GP President Geetha and others.

The residents complained that they were not receiving Cauvery water. Jyothi replied that a new borewell has been sunk and water will be supplied. Vasu suggested that a tank could be built near SDMIMD at the foot of Chamundi Hill, where Cauvery water is being supplied, which can be pumped to Tavarekatte.

Deshpande asked the officials to study the feasibility of that project. The villagers bemoaned that khatas were not being provided for them. When Deshpande sought the reason from the DC, the latter said that a joint survey was due involving the Forest Department which will be done soon.

The residents alleged that the silt of Tavarekatte pond was removed and sold for a good price to a brick factory illegally. The Minister raised a point that the silt being very fertile could have been used as fertiliser. However, he assured to check the details to ascertain whether the desilting was done in excess of the stipulated depth.

All set for Yoga Day at MRC

In all, there are five gates from where the yoga enthusiasts can enter the ground. However, there is a separate entrance for VIPs at the rear side of the ground and the entrance is from the CAR Ground side. The other four entrances are from the Rana Pratap Circle side, Race Course Circle side, near the ticket counter side and also the main gate. KSRTC will start operating the buses from 4.30 am itself and people participating in the yoga can use this facility by purchasing tickets. The gates at MRC will open at 5 am. They will be picked up from various extensions and dropped back once the event is over.

The 45-minute yoga protocol which will start at 7 am and end at 7.45 am will be inaugurated by District Minister G.T. Devegowda in the presence of Tourism Minister S.R. Mahesh, MP Pratap Simha, Suttur Seer Sri Shivarathri Deshikendra Swamiji, Avadootha Datta Peetham's Sri Ganapathy Sachchidananda Swamiji, Adichunchanagiri Seer Nirmalanandanatha Swamiji, royal scion Yaduveer Wadiyar, DC Abhiram G. Sankar, MCC Commissioner Shilpa Nag and others.

Speaking to SOM here this morning, snake rescuer Snake Shyam said that he had done the combing operations at the Race Course from 6 am till 12 noon in every corner and niches of the ground including the drainages and found that there were no snakes.

Pourakarmikas' plight

It was a sorry sight to see the plight of Pourakarmikas whose hands and legs were bruised as they cleared the weeds and other growth around the sprawling Mysore Race Club premises. They were deputed by the MCC to clean the grounds. As there were many thorny bushes, the thorns tore into their skins and they were seen bleeding as they were not provided any gloves but only machetes and brooms.

Mysuru, June 20 (YDS&BCT)- The Centre for Soft Power (CSP), in collaboration with India Foundation and Indic Academy, has come up with 'Yoga Niyoga', a unique project that pays tribute to Yoga through Music, Naadam and Sanskrit verses. Over 20 artistes, musicians and dancers have come together to create an audio-video tribute to Yoga Shastra.

The song will be released in multiple venues all over India and abroad on June 21, the International Day of Yoga. Dr. Nagendra, Founder Director, Swami Vivekananda Yoga Anusandhana (S-Vyasa) will release it in the British Parliament on the same day.

The song has been composed by Mysore Manjunath, a violinist who has performed in more than 50 countries. He has set this Anthem to the tune of the newly-created Raaga 'Bharata', also composed by Manjunath. Musicians and vocalists from different genres of music, including Karnatak music, Hindustani, Dhrupad Sangeeth, Western music, jazz, country music and Japanese music have come together to perform for the song. Remarkably, over 14 traditional instruments were used.

The lyrics for the song have been written by Bengaluru-based Shatavadhani R. Ganesh, a practitioner of the art of avadhana, a polyglot, an author in Sanskrit and Kannada and an extempore poet in multiple languages. Praveen D. Rao, tabla exponent, has put together the recordings of the musicians.

Manjunath said that the Raaga was the fruit of hard labour for days together. "The corpus of Indian classical music already has more than 15,000 Raagas and creating a new Raaga is not easy. I have always dreamt of enriching the Yoga Day celebrations and that dream has now come true with the Anthem set to my Raaga Bharata," he said.

There are several firsts in this project. An Anthem has been created for India's great Yoga Vidya by a contemporary poet, a new raga has been found and named to resonate with the spirit of the song and artistes of all hues — vocalists, instrumentalists and musicians of different genres have come together to create a tribute to Yoga.

Some of the most eminent names in Indian classical have contributed to the composition of the Yoga Anthem. They are Pandit Ronu Majumdar (flautist), Vijay Prakash (playback singer), Pandit Sanjeev Abhyankar (Hindustani vocalist), Gundecha Bandhu (Drupad vocalist), Jayanthi Kumaresh (Saraswathi Veena), Rafique Khan (Sitarist), Ramdas Palsule (Tabla) and Bombay Jayashree (Karnatak vocalist).

Besides stalwarts of Indian music, the production of the Anthem has also seen many international musicians contributing to it including Alice Barron (Western Classical violinist), Ned McGovan (Western Classical flautist), Keiko Shichijo (pianist from Japan) and Trina Basu (Canadian Jazz violinist), among others.

On his Raaga Bharata, Manjunath said that two months back he was requested to compose a Yoga Anthem. "I wanted to try out something new and thought of creating a new Raaga for it. After a few attempts, I was able to create one while I was travelling. I recorded it immediately and I discovered that the Raaga was fresh. I even checked with a few music scholars and they too confirmed that it is a new Raaga and I named it Bharata, India's legendary after whom our nation has been named," he said.

On the response so far to the Yoga Anthem, Manjunath said that as of now, the Anthem was only released to a limited audience. "The response is overwhelmingly positive," he said.

THE LYRICS OF YOGA NIYOGA

Line 1: Knowledge of Yoga blesses the world with prosperity
Line 2: Yoga is the bestower of auspiciousness, born in the land of Bharata, pleasing all
Line 3: It is the knowledge contributed by Muni Patanjali from the well-ascertained wisdom of the Vedas and Shastras
Line 4: Known to remove impurities caused by the three instruments — the body, the mind and speech (this knowledge is blessed) by the limitless compassion of Hara, Hari and Gowri (by intense practice and teaching).

Williamson stars in New Zealand's four-wicket win over South Africa

Edgbaston, June 20- A brilliant hundred by the Kiwi skipper Kane Williamson and a solid 60 by Colin de Grandhomme enabled New Zealand to register a four-wicket win over South Africa in a keenly contested match at Edgbaston, Birmingham, on Wednesday.

Needing 8-runs to win in the last over, New Zealand skipper Kane Williamson (106 n.o., 138b, 9x4, 1x6), scored a massive six over mid-wicket off the 2nd ball and followed it up with a boundary off Andile Phehlukwayo, to signal his team's win.

In a match reduced to 49 overs, due to wet outfield, New Zealand won the toss and elected to field first. South Africa started badly losing opener Quinton de Kock (5) early (1-9). Hashim Amla (55, 83b, 4x4) and skipper Faf du Plessis (23, 35b, 4x4) added 50-runs for the second wicket. Aiden Markram (38, 55b, 4x4), Rassie van der Dussen (67 n.o., 64b, 2x4, 3x6) and David Miller 36 (37b, 2x4, 1x6) batted well to enable South Africa to post a total of 241 for six in 49 overs. Lockie Ferguson impressed for New Zealand taking three for 59.

New Zealand, in reply, got off to a shaky start losing opener Colin Munro (9) early (1-12). Martin Guptill (35, 59b, 5x4) and skipper Williamson (106 n.o.) added 60-runs for the second wicket, but New Zealand lost the wickets of Ross Taylor (1), Tom Latham (1) and James Neesham (23) quickly and were reduced to 137 for five at one stage.

A brilliant fight-back by the Kiwis enabled them to surpass the target and ended scoring 245 for six in 48.3 overs. Colin de Grandhomme's 60 (47b,5x4, 2x6) and Williamson added a valuable 91-runs for the sixth wicket which helped their team's cause.

WORD OF THE DAY

Chasten

Pronunciation: CHAY-sun
Meaning: To correct by punishment or suffering: discipline; purify; to prune something of excess: refine.
Origin: If you say you would castigate or chastise someone in order to chasten them, you demonstrate a good knowledge of the origin of chasten—all three verbs derive from Latin verb castigare, meaning "to punish." (Castigare combines Latin castus, which means "pure" and is the source of English chaste, with the verb agere, meaning "to lead" or "to drive.") Castigate, chastise, and chasten share the sense of "to subject to severe and often physical punishment," but all three verbs are now as likely to refer to a verbal dressing-down as to a physical lesson. Chasten (which arrived in English via Anglo-French chastier) can also be used to mean "to prune of excess, pretense, or falsity."
Example: He was very arrogant as a younger man, but he has been sufficiently chastened by life's hardships and is now more cognizant of his own failings and weaknesses.

PHRASE OF THE DAY

In a cleft stick

Meaning: In a position where advance and retreat are both impossible; in a fix.
Origin: When we cleave something we split it into two pieces. It is then said to be 'cleft' or 'cloven'. These archaic-sounding words aren't commonly used alone these days and only persist in phrases like 'cleft-palate', 'cloven-hoofed' and 'in a cleft stick'. Cleft sticks are those which are split at one end, that is, forked sticks and they were used as simple tools for carrying small items such as bundles of paper or candles. Jonathan Swift makes a reference to such in his 'Directions to Servants' in Works, circa 1745: "You may conveniently stick your candle in a bottle, or with a lump of butter against the wainscot, in a powder-horn, or in an old shoe, or in a cleft stick." Swift's use, although hardly serious, is a literal one and doesn't suggest the figurative use, which is first recorded in the correspondence in William Cowper's Works, 1782:
"We are squeezed to death, between the two sides of that sort of alternative which is commonly called a cleft stick."
'In a cleft stick' originated in the UK and its use elsewhere has always been limited. As is so often the case, there is more than one theory that purports to explain this.
